

HUNGARIAN UNREST WORRIES AUSTRIA

Disclosures in Foreign Press Upset Civil and Military Heads.

COUNT TIZA GIVEN THE TASK OF DENIAL

London Correspondent of Hungarian Paper Hears of Troubles of Dual Empire.

(By Cable to The Tribune.) London, Dec. 28.—The following is a letter from Budapest received by the London correspondent of a Hungarian newspaper via Italy, under date of December 21:

"Not the least interesting feature of this week's events is the desperate state of mind into which the Austrian civil and military authorities were thrown by the disclosures in the foreign press. The Hungarian press explains this uneasiness by pointing out that Italy is only waiting for the moment when Austria's difficulties seem overwhelming to find a pretext for intervention. The Hungarian press also explains this uneasiness by pointing out that Italy is only waiting for the moment when Austria's difficulties seem overwhelming to find a pretext for intervention. The Hungarian press also explains this uneasiness by pointing out that Italy is only waiting for the moment when Austria's difficulties seem overwhelming to find a pretext for intervention."

"Count Tiza was entrusted with the duty of denying, for the benefit of Italy and Rumania, the real state of things in Hungary. He says the Hungarians received the news of the retreat from Serbia with courage and confidence, and that it is not true that the feeling of the Hungarian people is hostile to Germany, and that the statement that there is an independence movement in Budapest and other parts of Hungary is a pure invention. Count Tiza, of all men, is the least justified to deny the existence of an independence movement and dissatisfaction in Hungary, for, as he represented Austria during the war, he has seen the Hungarian army, all the hatred and contempt of this suffocating spirit was concentrated against his person. He has been stoned and pelted with eggs whenever he has appeared on the streets anywhere in Hungary. He has surrounded himself with detectives even when asleep, and all because he opposed the Hungarian national aspirations and was a servant of the Hapsburgs and Hohenzollerns."

DENY BOMBARDMENT OF DARDANELLES

Berlin, Dec. 28 (by wireless to Sayville, N. Y.).—The Official Press Bureau today gave out the following:

"A Turkish official bulletin reports victorious progress on the Caucasian front without specifying the operations in detail. Turkey also officially declares that last week there was no bombardment of the Dardanelles."

FRANK NOT SURPRISED

Prisoner's Wife and Mother Share His Joy at Decision.

(By Telegram to The Tribune.)

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 28.—"It's a long time that has no turning," said Leo M. Frank, condemned to die for the murder of Mary Phagan, when he was informed by the Tribune correspondent to-night that the Supreme Court would hear his appeal from the refusal of Judge Newman to grant his habeas corpus proceeding."

"When we glad news came to Frank that his joy was shared by his wife, Mrs. Lucile Frank; his mother, Mrs. Rudolph Frank; and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Emil Selig, all of whom were in his cell at the time."

"I can't say that I am particularly surprised at the decision to give me a hearing," said Frank. "I knew that it would be inevitable. You may crush truth, but it will not stay crushed."

"Solicitor Dorely declared he was greatly surprised by the decision, but other than that he had little to say. He said he would request a quick hearing before the Supreme Court."

"By the decision Frank becomes practically a prisoner of the United States and his sentence is automatically stayed. Sheriff Mangum has been ordered to deliver his prisoner to the federal courts when called upon."

"Attorneys for Frank expressed their joy at the winning of the first legal point for Frank since the long fight began, and said they believed it augured well for the final contest for his freedom. The news was received with pleasure by the chauffeur of the motor car in which he has never lost faith in Atlanta."

Terrible Conditions in Carnations.

"Regarding the campaign in the Carnations, the officer said that the most desperate fighting is going on between the two sides. The Russians have reinforced their troops all along the front and they deliver fierce attacks for the possession of the better positions in the latetza valley. The battle has been raging for a week. Since last Sunday the river has been frozen, and the Russians broke up the ice for seven kilometers to prevent the Austrians from crossing. The next night it was sufficiently frozen again to allow crossing in some parts, and in certain places men were fighting hand-to-hand battles on the top of the thin sheet of ice, which broke under them. In some instances the Russian and Austrian soldiers were struggling together in the icy water, and gave a helping hand to each other to get on the top again."

"The suffering of these poor men through the severe weather in the mountains surpasses all imagination. Under such conditions the opposing armies cannot come to any decision whatever, and those who are the more enduring and inured to such hardships will emerge victorious. In that case we shall again have to look forward to an invasion on a more extensive scale, for the Russian forces have now entered a number of times as many as at the time of the last invasion, when they reached Bartfeld and Zemplin."

"The large number of recruits who have been under training since October is being sent to Bosnia and Herzegovina. The east station has been crowded with them for days. It is a pitiful sight to see all these young boys taking leave of their mothers and fathers, who are from over nineteen years old. We saw General Potiorek, commander in chief of the ill-fated army in Serbia, watching his troops entrain. He has become quite gray since last saw him speaking to a mob from a window in the national casino last July. There was more fire and determination in his eyes than now. Standing at the window of the first class waiting room, with his collar upturned, he was really a sorrowful sight of himself."

"The winter is extremely severe, and there is such a scarcity of coal that only very well-to-do people can afford to heat their dwellings. Foodstuffs are expensive. Only meat is to be had at reasonable prices. The coming Christmas will be the most unhappy one of our lifetime, I am sure."

AUSTRIAN EMPEROR THANKS AMERICANS

Washington, Dec. 28.—The State Department today announced the receipt of the following telegram from Ambassador Penfield at Vienna:

"Emperor Francis Joseph has communicated to me his grateful thanks to the sympathetic friends in America who sent gifts of clothing and toys to war orphans by the ship Jason. Half a million gifts this week being distributed throughout Austria-Hungary. The Emperor thanks every donor and person taking part in the work of sending Christmas cheer to his suffering people."

ways the student, his thoughts, his endeavors, his work, his life, his always on lines of improvement."

"The Exceptional Man."

"He got that from my father, who is a man of unusual learning. He graduated from the University of Gothen before he came with my mother to this country, where we, Leo and I, were born—Leo in Texas and I here in Brooklyn. All his life Leo spent in this country. Every one who knows him speaks well of him. They couldn't if he wasn't what he is—the exceptional man—clean in heart and clean in habit."

"Now that the worst is over I can truly say that we never despair of Leo's ultimate vindication. We never doubted that he would come out all right. All I know of what has happened today is what I received over the telephone a little while ago. But the details do not matter. All we know the substance. And the substance is good."

"Our parents went South a month ago to be with Leo during the holidays. They see him every day, mother and father, and some days father spends all day, except the noon hour, with him. I heard from mother this morning, but it was purely a personal letter. Leo, she said, was well and cheerful, and she knew that we would get the news out of the papers quicker than she could send it."

"Yes, Leo is cheerful. He always has been cheerful and confident. He is an optimist. We are all optimists."

"But Leo is not wealthy; neither are our people. He is not a millionaire manufacturer or anything of the sort, just a salaried employee of the pencil company, that is all. Father was on the road as a salesman until a little while ago, when poor health made him retire. That is how wealthy he is."

Letting the Lawyers Talk.

"As things are going so nicely down there now we are not saying very much," Mr. Stern interposed and did not be well. We are letting the lawyers do the talking."

"I wish you would go down to Atlanta and have a talk with my brother," Mrs. Stern went on. "In two minutes would convince you that he is just the type of man, even tempered, just, determined immunity for himself in any part he may have had in the murder."

During the day the police added one more to the long list of those named as material witnesses. He is John McCauley, of 335 West 47th st. Assistant District Attorney Duquel questioned him at length last night, but refused to explain his possible connection with the case."

Reduce Minimum Prices.

Members of the Stock Exchange were notified yesterday by Secretary George W. Ely that new minimum prices had been established on Atlantic Coast Line and Reading second preferreds. The minimum level below which sales cannot be made for the former is now 99, and for the latter 78. The reductions were from 102 and 80, respectively, and were made because of recent action on the dividends."

The business of the Monday Club is to tighten up all the loose nuts discovered in the machinery of the world. In other words, it is a band of social workers, and this year's programme is to clean up the loose nuts in the institutions of correction and work for a betterment of conditions."

The cell blocks received considerable attention last night, and then the party sat down to a dinner which had been scheduled as "prison fare." It is understood that the club suggested this feature and Commissioner Katherine B. Davis fell in with the scheme. Of course, the city makes no provision for such forms of entertainment, but Miss Davis gladly acted as hostess and paid the bill."

The visitors were served by real, honest-to-goodness prisoners and the meal was quite exciting. There were roast beef, lima beans, mashed potatoes, coffee and canned peaches. "Oh, my!" gasped a beautiful "young woman with a purpose in life" when the company had adjourned to the chapel after dinner. "Wasn't it wonderful? Just to think of eating real prison food!"

"But I didn't like it," gurgled her friend, "it was a little out of the middle of my beef. But I suppose they don't know the difference over here."

"You going to do about it?" queried an apparently innocent bystander.

"Well, of course, we don't know yet," was the reply from the earnest lips.

"We will ask Miss Davis what to do," I suppose we should arouse public sentiment or something like that, shouldn't we?"

One of the prisoners told the guests about his ideas on prison management and Miss Davis explained the plans for the new prison building on Riker's Island. The Department of Corrections has been charged with the subject of a talk by Robert Rosenbluth, the superintendent, and Warden Fox told how the Blackwell's Island institution was run."

After some magic lantern pictures, which were pronounced "just fine" had been shown everybody rushed off to the 9:30 boat to marvel on the problem of caring for so many "awful people."

The proper steps to be taken had not been decided upon when the boat docked at the foot of East 70th st. "Sh! It was officials' fare that was served. It's a secret."

by Pearlman as men who had told him that they witnessed the Buff murder, said yesterday that "Pearlman is a damned liar."

The two men admitted that they were in the neighborhood of the market after that they were shot. Then men insisted that they were not together and that they had not seen the slayers. Yesterday it was learned by the police that the chauffeur of the motor car is supposed to have been a man known as "Lefty" Dunn. Dunn, it is said, is being sought by the police in Buffalo.

Besides Carl Bettich, the young West Hoboken bartender, another man, whose identity was not revealed, was brought before the grand jury yesterday and gave testimony that will result in the indictment of three conspirators and two gunmen, some of whom are now in the Tombs, on Wednesday.

He testified that he was in a saloon near where the murder of Buff took place a few minutes before the killing and observed two men whose actions indicated that they were at the head of the plot. It is thought that he either saw the men examining their guns or overheard their conversation."

Witness Identifies Guns.

Bettich, it is said, made a complete revelation of what he saw and heard from behind his bar, and told of the money that passed through his hands as the go-between for the murderers and the conspirators. He also identified the guns which were found hidden in his room as the property of James Moore and Joe Cohen.

A truck driver known by the name of Sullivan yesterday added to the mass of information regarding the crime that has been gathered by the District Attorney's office and the Police Department. According to his story, he saw the murder committed and is able to identify the men who did the shooting. He will be given an opportunity to face the men now in custody to-day.

James Moore, who has been indicted on a charge of assaulting A. T. Pearson, another poultry dealer, was not permitted to appear before the grand jury as a witness, and, according to District Attorney Whitman, he will not be called. By testifying he would
